

FACULTY WORKSHOPS

Blanket Exercise

The Centre for the Advancement of Teaching and Learning is pleased to announce that it is offering an interactive learning experience that teaches Indigenous Rights history known as the "Blanket Exercise." This exercise was developed by KAIROS Canada in response to the 1996 Royal Commission on Aboriginal Peoples recommendation of educating Indigenous history that will assist toward reconciliation.

Thu, Feb 15, 1:00 - 4:00 PM | Rm 223 – 65 Dafoe Rd

Facilitator: Leah Fontaine

LUNCH HOUR WORKSHOPS

Promoting Classroom Engagement

This workshop is structured as a panel discussion among students and professors from the Faculty of Law. The panelists will share their experiences and ideas for promoting a classroom experience that is engaging for both students and professors. The interactive panel format is designed to engage workshop participants by encouraging them to ask questions and share their thoughts in an open, class wide discussion.

Tue, Feb 13, 12:00 - 1:00 PM | Rm 223 – 65 Dafoe Rd

Facilitator: Dr. Virginia Torrie (Faculty of Law)

CENTRE SPOTLIGHT

Cora Chojko-Bolec joined The Centre in November as an Educational Developer. She brings with her over 10 years of experience teaching and facilitating learning in a variety of health care, engineering and apprenticeship programs.

Within The Centre, Cora prepares and delivers workshops to faculty and graduate students, mentors faculty enrolled in the TLC program, assists with the GTP program, and develops resources to support evidence-based teaching practices at the University.

Cora has found that the transition from being in a classroom to working at The Centre in itself has been valuable, "After teaching for a number of years, I was accustomed to being at the front of a classroom. Starting my new role here has been a good reminder of what it is like to re-establish oneself – it allows me to empathize with and, in turn, better support those striving to establish themselves in their role as educator." Cora likens her position to that of a coach, utilizing her experience to support others in the development of their teaching and learning.
