1972-73

1976-77

John Irvine:

Often known as Johnny Appleseed, he taught the first year students one of the core courses. He could often be seen supplementing his income by disguising himself as "Little Orphan Johnny" and selling apples on the corner.

1977-78

JOHN IRVINE

Fond of animal torts. Some think, too much. Poor attender, worse driver. Rumour has it that he moved to the country because decent folks didn't want him around. Welcome at Robson Hall.

1979-80

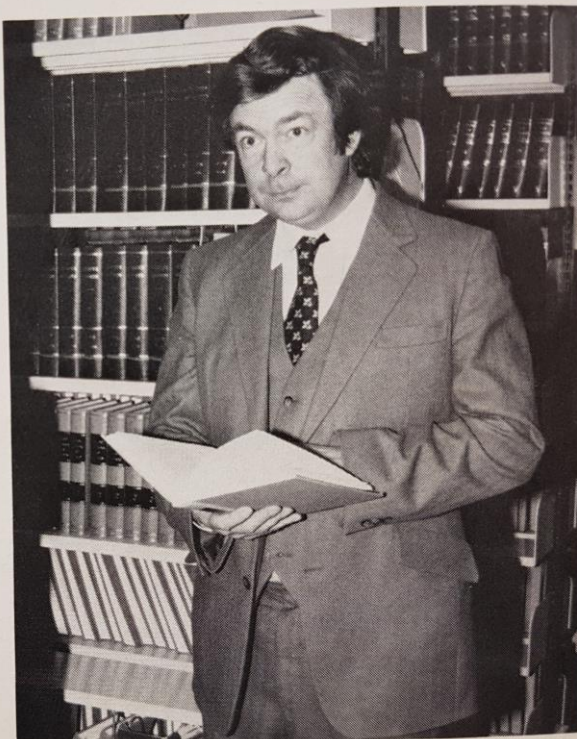

You can take John out of the country, but you can't take the country out of J.I.

1980-81

Jack London:

Author of Call of the Wild ... Oh! Not that Jack London? Professor London's classes were often quite taxing. One of the reasons he drives his students so hard is that he worked his way through law school as a taxi driver. If he couldn't be a lawyer, Jack wanted to be a taxidermist.
